THE 1948 MAINLINER

Published By The
SENIOR CLASS
ROCKWOOD HIGH SCHOOL

FOREWORD

We, the class of 1948, present the second edition of the Rockwood High School Yearbook, "Mainliner." In this book we carry forward the idea established by our predecessors. The idea originated from the fact that the main line of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad passes through Rockwood Borough. The name originally was given as a nickname to the basketball squad. For this reason it has been adopted as the name for the annual publication.

DEDICATION

CALVIN A. NEWMAN

*He was a scholar and a ripe and good one;
Exceeding wise, fair spoken, and persuading;
Lofty and sour, to them that loved him not;
But to those men that sought him, sweet as summer.*

—Shakespeare.

DEDICATION

WE HONOR A FAITHFUL SERVANT

To the late Calvin A. Newman, a member of the Rockwood faculty for 25 years, we, the class of 1948, dedicate this edition of the MAIN-LINER.

His faithful service, his genuine friendship, and his pleasing personality earned him a place in the hearts of the entire student body.

SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

Success! Four years ago we began to climb the educational ladder to success. At last we have reached the top—ready to take advantage of the golden opportunities awaiting us.

As freshmen, we had an enrollment of fifty-two eager students. We elected our class officers and began our career as "money-makers"—selling Christmas cards, beanies, vanilla, and other items.

During our sophomore year, we were hosts to the freshmen at a "Hobo Party" which was a new type of entertainment, enjoyable to everyone. Our senior project, the new blackout curtains, arrived early in the spring, and we felt quite proud as we presented them to the school.

The main event of our junior year was the Jr.-Sr. Prom, which we held in honor of the seniors. Our production of "Here Comes Charlie" as our class play was incomparable. Little tokens of our educational fulfillments were our class rings, so proudly worn by us as juniors.

Selling candy and coke were our money-making schemes in our senior year. We were quite busy publishing our yearbook and making all preparations for graduation, but we took the time and effort to present one last dramatization of our talents in the senior class play, "The Groom Said No."

Our final activities were the senior banquet, Jr.-Sr. Prom, Class Day, and lastly, Baccalaureate and Commencement. Now we are anxious to find what the future holds in store for all thirty-six of us.

SENIOR CLASS WILL

We, the members of the Senior Class of Rockwood High School, being of unsound mind and ill-health, in deep reverence will remember the happy days spent in good old R. H. S. In expressing our appreciation and gratitude for the faculty's advice and guidance, we, the Senior Class, want to make an only will and testament of our good traits, estate and wealth which we leave behind for other classes.

ARTICLE I

SECTION I. To Mr. Powell we leave the candy wrappers which we found on the floor in the halls and rooms.

SECTION II. To Mr. Berkebile we leave the memory, forever, of a very noisy class.

SECTION III. To Mr. Forbes we leave a yearbook staff that will accomplish something at its meetings.

SECTION IV. To Mrs. Albright we leave a shorthand class that does not gripe when an assignment is given.

SECTION V. To Mrs. Zimmerman we leave all the temperamental mathematicians she can get.

SECTION VI. To Mrs. Hay we leave all the themes and literature we had to do in English.

SECTION VII. To Mr. Ortman we leave a basketball team that can win some games.

SECTION VIII. To Mrs. Martin we leave the pennies she collected from the kids for chewing gum.

SECTION IX. To Mr. Fleischer we leave a class that keeps awake during P. O. D.

SECTION X. To Miss Contes we leave a play cast that will know their lines in time for the matinee.

SECTION XI. To Mr. Orlidge we leave all his mathematical problems to solve without the answer book.

SECTION XII. To Mrs. Hickson we leave the spices in the second can from the right on the top shelf—second door—in the laboratory.

SECTION XIII. To Mr. Reese we leave a class that can make 100 percent in his daily 100 percent or 0 exams.

SECTION XIV. To Mr. Sanner we leave a shop class which will put away the tools.

SECTION XV. To Mr. Illar we leave a band and chorus class which isn't interrupted by the banging of the front door.

ARTICLE II

SECTION I. To the members of the junior class we will our dignified manners.

SECTION II. To the members of the sophomore class we will our ambition and cooperation in class activities.

SECTION III. To the members of the freshman class we will our joyous thoughts of that year. (Initiation and all).

SECTION IV. To the members of the faculty we will Brother Yorich, who should prove a very fine student. For further information about him, see "Prof" Berkebile.

SECTION V. To the bus drivers we will passengers on the bus who sit and keep quiet.

SECTION VI. To Bob Miller we will a chair to replace the one broken at a yearbook meeting.

SECTION VII. To all future chemists, if they will proceed twelve feet in from the door, and to the left fourteen feet, we leave for them to analyze a spot on the floor nine inches from the left foot.

SENIOR CLASS WILL

ARTICLE III

I, Phyllis Clevenger, leave my long bus ride to school to Mary Miller.

I, Albert Kusch, leave my knowledge of far-away places to Alice Romesberg.

I, Janice McIntyre, leave my hardships with English punctuation to Douglas Speicher.

I, Howard Nicklow, leave my bashfulness to Elmer Weyand.

I, Janice Hostetler, leave my ability to take shorthand dictation to Anna Mae Swarner.

I, George Everhart, leave my bright red hair to Mr. Ortman.

I, Jean Lamp, leave my ability to play basketball to Shirley Pritts.

I, Lex Wilttrout, cannot leave anything. Shirley wants it all for herself.

I, Audrey Meyers, leave my speed typing, (with errors), to a junior who is fortunate enough to have perfect papers.

I, Sheldon Benford, leave all my excuses for tardiness to Dale Love.

I, Gerald Nicholson, leave my shy grin to Donald Woods.

I, Dorothy Hileman, leave my ability to be quiet to Mildred Engle.

I, Joyce Miller, leave all the check marks I got in commercial geography for talking to Betty Bowlby.

I, Robert Ringer, leave my mathematical ability to anyone who thinks he can equal it.

I, Shirley Gerber, leave my English ability to my dear cousin, Ken DeVore.

I, Everett Nicklow, leave my lofty height to Russell Burroughs.

I, Faye Berkey, leave my drum majorette position to Doris Ringer.

I, E. Jay Romesberg, leave my money to Wilbur Phillippi.

I, Pauline Kreger, leave my quietness to Mary Ann Pritts.

I, Glenn Baer, leave my beautiful blue eyes to the first baby born in '49.

I, Marlys Kimmell, leave my talkativeness to Freda Woods.

I, Fred Nelson, leave my respect for girls to Jim Gardner.

I, Mary Kincaid, leave my quick temper to Peggy Pritts.

I, Robert Engle, leave my ability to pester the girls to Joe Marker.

I, Vera Jean Weimer, leave my ability to ask questions to Dorothy Dickey.

I, Gale Pyle, leave all my A's to Charles Kreger.

I, Kathryn Carpenter, leave my cooking ability to Mary Jane Cramer.

I, Robert Miller, leave my dancing ability to Richard Weimer.

I, Reda Anderson, leave my beautiful black hair to June McIntyre.

I, Robert Leonberger, leave my ability to make A's in business math to the sophomore girls.

I, Jeanne Clay, leave my bright blue glasses to Mrs. Hay.

I, Faye Sanner, leave my short height to Marjorie Sechler.

I, Dorothy Barclay, leave my good record in school attendance to Ralph Henry.

I, Wayne Heinbaugh, leave my dignified reserve to Merle Sanner.

I, Grace Crisafi, leave my musical ability to Marlene Peters.

I, Marie Lichty, leave my ability to laugh when nothing's funny to Audrey Berkey.

THE 1948 SENIOR CLASS,
Rockwood High School.

CLASS PROPHECY

Twenty years have passed since the class of '48 thronged through the halls back at R. H. S. Tired from having worked hard, I decided to take a trip, and do some checking on my classmates.

I boarded an Aerocar, an invention of the Atomic Age, and in five minutes landed at the White House in Washington, where I soon gained admittance when the President found out my name. Smiling, he greeted me and I noticed that he was the same Albert (Kusch) who always was introducing something novel back in school. He told me he had made some improvements in the White House by removing the balcony Truman had built and installing a swimming pool.

We talked for a while and after a dip in the pool, President Kusch called a meeting of his advisors that I might see his efficient staff. Imagine my amazement when he introduced me to the Secretary of Agriculture, Sheldon Benford, and the Chief of Staff, Glenn Baer. The meeting under way, I met another member of our class, Janice Hostetler, the President's secretary. This was not surprising, however, since Janice was the speed demon of shorthand class 20 years ago. Evidently, she hasn't lost her touch.

After taking leave of the President, I wandered down Pennsylvania Avenue where I encountered an establishment with a large winking eye above it. My attention having been drawn, I entered and soon discovered that I was in an eye clinic run by none other than that famous eye specialist, Dr. Robert Miller. I couldn't help noticing how wide awake Bob looked, as I recalled several times he slept through P. O. D. class.

Needing my hair set, I entered a beautiful beauty salon a few doors down the street. I just got seated when a lilting voice interrupted, and to my astonishment, I found myself looking at the proprietor, Kathryn Carpenter. While having my hair dressed, we talked about old times, having quite a laugh about the hair-setting she used to do in school.

Next I visited the hospital here in the capitol which, incidentally, is the largest and best in the world. It was here I discovered another member of the class, Dr. Mary Kincaid. After a short chat, she took me on a tour of the hospital. First we entered the operating room where a delicate operation was being performed by a great surgeon. I watched as the doctor's skillful hands worked and when it was over, she stepped into the hall, and removed her mask; dark hair fell to her shoulders and there stood Dr. Joyce Miller. After congratulating her on her fine operation, Dr. Kincaid and I continued to the laboratory. I was not surprised to find Dr. Janice McIntyre in the role of laboratory technician. When she got this job, Janice really applied the chemistry she had learned under the supervision of Mr. Berkebile.

I left the hospital, and walked down the street. Soon a tantalizing odor reached my nostrils and I realized I was hungry. I followed the odor which led me into a huge restaurant. Guess who was the owner? Wayne Heinbaugh —of all people! I inquired who was concocting such a delicious dish, and he promptly ushered me to the kitchen where I was greeted by Faye Sanner. Faye was still as short and slender as ever.

After satisfying my hunger, I found my way to the radar gram office to send a wire to my secretary. I almost fainted when Robert Leonberger turned out to be the operator. Bob got my message off to a flying start, his nimble fingers pushing a button with amazing accuracy. While I was waiting for an answer to my message, a call came in saying that something was wrong with a radar receiving set and a technician was summoned. I just got a glimpse of George Everhart's red hair, and then he was off on his assignment.

After receiving the answer to my message, I found I needed some legal advice and whom do you think I found to be the most prominent lawyer there? Faye Berkey, who always enjoyed business law class in '48. This seems to be a woman's world! Another classmate, Jeanne Clay, came in as I was leaving. She told me she was having some trouble collecting alimony from her third husband. I extended my sympathies and an invitation to join me in doing some shopping.

The most exclusive dress shop, Jeanne told me, was a few blocks down the street, and it was owned by none other than Reda Anderson. Reda called her most popular model to show us the latest fashions. To my utmost amazement, who should appear but Audrey Meyers, looking as tall and lovely as ever. I just had to talk to Audrey, since she was one of my dearest friends and soon we were laughing as we usually did back in school, especially in study hall. Having bought several beautiful creations, I inquired who had designed such exquisite gowns. In answer, Phyllis Clevenger stepped through a curtain from the back of the shop to greet me. Soon it was closing time and we all went to dinner. After dinner, we attended a dance recital at the theater. The first number on the program was a ballet, beautifully done by Jean Lamp, still as sweet and lovable as ever. At the end of the number, a loud and furious clapping drew my attention to Marie Lichty, who is now a toy manufacturer. At the intermission, I talked with her and she told me that she was doing very well. She also solved the mystery of another member of the class of '48, when she informed me that Pauline Kreger was her private secretary.

Later in the evening we were entertained by another graduate of '48, Vera Jean Weimer, now a famous concert pianist. E. J. Romesberg, her publicity manager, was also there, turning the pages of music as she played. Immediately before the program began, I noticed a well-dressed, wealthy-looking man, accompanied by several lovely young ladies, whom I took to be his daughters, enter the auditorium. As he came closer I was able to discern the familiar features of Fred Nelson. (And Fred was going to be a bachelor, tch! tch!)

The following morning I had a little time to spare before returning home, so I spent it in a day nursery operated by Dorothy Hileman and Dorothy Barclay. These two were inseparable at school, so I was not surprised to find them still together 20 years later. Both were ideally suited for this work and I could easily see the children held a great liking for them.

Since it was time to catch my Aerocar, I took leave of my dear classmates and this fair city. Arriving at the airport just in time to buy a newspaper, I learned that Gerald Nicholson was to be the pilot. Gerald was still the tall, bashful, and handsome fellow. I sat down and the hostess, a small, dark-haired girl, made me comfortable. Wait a minute! That face is familiar. Yes, Grace Crisafi. Grace wanted to be a nurse, but I see she has gone one step further in getting such a glamorous job as hostess.

After the Aerocar took off, I opened my newspaper and a big headline on the sports page caught my attention. This big league baseball star, Robert Engle, had signed a contract for $2,000,000 with the Pittsburgh Pirates, now holding first place in the league. Bob, always interested in sports, had really made the top.

On we went and as I noticed the beautiful landscape below, I was told that a huge ranch, which I saw nestled in the dark green mountains, belonged to the Nicklow boys—Everett and Howard. I remember these two as quiet young men, very much interested in agriculture. Still further on I noticed a huge dam being constructed and this being one of our stops, inquired more about this project. Seeing that a tall, dark, young man was in charge, I went to him to ask several questions. When he turned to face me, I found myself looking at Lex Wiltrout, Chief Engineer. Lex called his assistant, Robert Ringer, to show me around and answer my questions.

After thanking them, I hurried back to the airport and began the last lap of my trip. A new passenger had boarded the Aerocar—Mr. Gale Pyle, the famous horticulturist who had succeeded in growing mashed potatoes. We talked and before I knew it, we had reached the outskirts of my home town. Having landed, I took my own Aerocar and went to see Marlys Kimmell, now Mrs. Wilhelm Van Dyke. I stopped at the most beautiful mansion I have ever seen, surrounded by tall trees and green lawns. I found her at the edge of the swimming pool watching her twin daughters play.

Now that I have located all of the class of '48, I, Shirley Gerber, must get back to my job of owning and editing a newspaper.

In September, 1945, fifty-six freshmen were initiated and welcomed into the high school. On October 25, we attended the annual Freshman-Sophomore Party. On May 1, 1947, we sponsored a May Day Dance.

In August, 1946, only fifty of these freshmen returned as sophomores. In September we initiated the freshmen.

In August, 1947, our class dropped to forty-two members. Early in the fall we placed our order for class rings, and on April 7 and 8, we presented the junior class play "So Help Me."

As a money-making project we sold hot dogs at the basketball games, personal post cards, and stationery.

On September 2, 1947, fifty-two students entered the high school as freshmen. Early in the month we elected class officers. Later, we were surprised in a special assembly when the sophomores initiated us. But, on the evening of October 3, we were their guests at a party where we were entertained with games, dancing, and refreshments.

Our project for making money this year was selling Christmas cards, greeting cards, and stationery.

OPERETTA

"OUR BAND AND CHORUS"

The superb talent of both our band and chorus was displayed during the past year in numerous activities. Long remembered will be the chorus' presentation of the operetta "Oh Doctor", a two-act comedy, which drew record crowds and brought proceeds enough to purchase a new bass horn. Again the chorus took an active part in the baccalaureate service and was well represented at the All-County Festival held at Berlin, Pennsylvania.

The band rendered selections during musical interludes at the junior class, senior class and faculty plays. It played at the commencement exercise, took prizes for its excellent marching, and was represented at the All-County Festival held at Somerset, Pennsylvania.

BASKETBALL

Rockwood basketball fans will have to be content with cries of "Wait 'til next year" as far as the high school team goes. The record was a poor one, but considering Rockwood's lack of experience and height you come to the conclusion that the season was not too disappointing.

This was a year of seasoning and learning for the boys. Actually the record (won 2, lost 16) is a bit deceiving since no less than five games were lost that could have gone either way. Three of those five were with Somerset Twp. and Stonycreek Twp. and they were tied one-two for the Class B championship.

Varsity Cheerleaders

ACTIVITIES Club

LIBRARY CLUB

SEATED (L. to R.)—S. Weyand, reporter; D. Barclay, Treasurer; A. Miller, President; G. Judy, J. Fullem.

STANDING (L. to R.)—B. Landis, Secretary; R. Baer, M. Miller, J. Clay, R. Gerber, A. Pritts, L. DuPont, F. Woods, L. Heckler, B. Kusch.

The Library Club took a stride forward this year when it increased its membership to seventeen and became one of the most active organizations in the school. These members met in the library for work four periods a week. With the aid of new materials purchased by last year's seniors and the guidance of Mrs. Hay, the members practically have renovated the fiction books. In addition, they have begun cataloging the non-fiction books under the Dewey decimal system. This they hope to complete next year, not to mention the making of a card catalog which they are anticipating for the future. Their daily schedule for each week when different club members reported to the library during the pre-school and lunch hours to check books in and out and shelve them proved very efficient.

The club was very conservative, having no social events whatever. Instead, they pooled their dues and purchased beautiful library pins—tokens of their hard work.

ACTIVITIES Clubs

LATIN CLUB

SEATED (L. to R.)—D. Speicher, P. Berkebile, Pres.; Emma S. Hay, Adv.; D. Tedrow, Sec.; E. Barron, Treas.

STANDING (L. to R.)—M. Fresh, A. Gross, M. Miller, D. Barclay, A. Younkin, I. Gross, G. Judy, A. Miller, A. Romesberg, M. Colegrove, E. Bungard.

The Latin Club, a new and active organization of seventeen members, met the first and third Mondays of each month. During the year the members purchased gold-plated pins engraved with RLC. Their main project was the presentation of an original and clever assembly program carried out entirely in Latin. Holiday meetings were made social ones, and the year was climaxed with an ice cream party.

SPANISH CLUB

SEATED (L. to R.)—R. Leonberger, J. Walters, Pres.; A. Berkey, Sec.-Treas.; R. Miller, V. Pres.; R. Ringer, E. Romesberg, W. Phillippi, A. Contes, Adv.

One of the most interesting clubs organized this year was a Spanish Club, which met once every two weeks. Some of its major activities were the purchase of Spanish musical records and a Spanish newspaper. For entertainment the members engaged in numerous Spanish games.

Again the F. H. A. Club completed a well-organized and successful year. Several of its members attended the Farm Show at Harrisburg where Mary Alice Hayman received $5.00 for having taken fifth place in the state F. H. A. song-writing contest. Of its many social activities, the "Winter Serenade Dance" held December 19, 1947, proved very profitable. The club members have decided to purchase a coffee table, a bridge lamp, plaques, ornaments, and scarfs for the home economics living-room.

F. F. A. CLUB

SAFETY PATROL

FIRST ROW (L. to R.)—R. Lyons, D. Yutzy, R. Kincaid, G. Bowman, E. Miller.

THIRD ROW (L. to R.)—L. Wiltrout, C. Engleka.

Through the efforts of Mr. Powell and Private Uhl of the Pennsylvania State Police, the School Boy Patrol was organized this year in the Rockwood Public Schools.

These boys were selected on the basis of aptitude, dependability, interest in their task, popularity with the fellow students, and scholastic standing.

The primary aims of the patrol are:

To protect children from automobile accidents while they are on their way to and from school.

To help children to develop sound habits in use of streets.

To foster qualities of leadership and good citizenship in patrol members.

HOME ECONOMICS DEPARTMENT

(L. to R.)—Amelia Long, Emily L. Hickson, Instructor, Leona Henry, Nelda Snyder, Mary L. Pritts.

ACTIVITIES Scholastic

Seventeen intent faces. Four busy hands, bubbling liquid, curling blue vapor. Two beaming experimenters. Success! What next! One little cough! Two little coughs! Seventeen big coughs! Thirty-four streaming eyes! Windows flung open! Seventeen refugees from the granddaddy of all smells. I give you an hour in the life of a chemistry student at Rockwood High School.

LABORATORY

COMMERCIAL ROOM

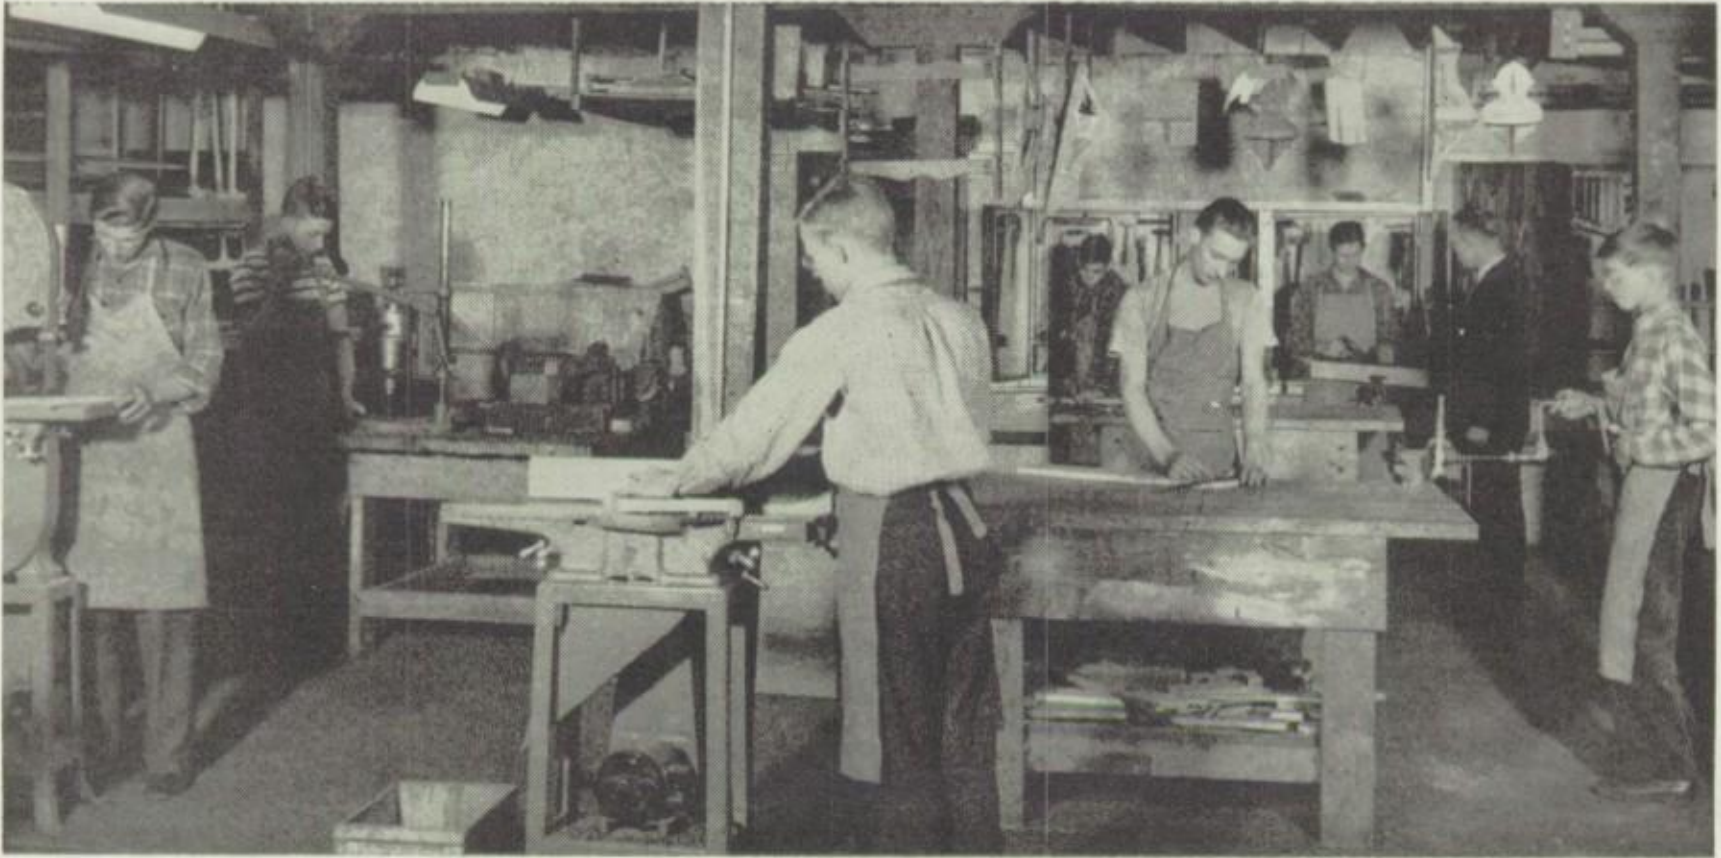

FIRST ROW (L. to R.)—J. Miller, P. Kreger, J. Clay, F. Berkey.
SECOND ROW (L. to R.)—J. Hostetler, G. Crisafi, V. Weimer.
THIRD ROW (L. to R.)—M. Lichty, M. Kincaid, D. Barclay, J. McIntyre, Lola K. Albright, Instructor.
FOURTH ROW (L. to R.)—P. Clevenger, S. Gerber, A. Meyers, M. Kimmell.

Marked by the clicking of the typewriters and the buzz of the Mimeograph machine, the commercial room stands out as one of the most efficient departments in the school. Here students are trained to be future stenogs, bookkeepers, and secretaries. Senior commercial students are given actual experience in office practice where they serve as secretaries to the different teachers, who keep them quite busy typing and running off tests and performing other duties characteristic of this type of work.

ACTIVITIES Scholastic

INDUSTRIAL ARTS DEPARTMENT

LEFT TO RIGHT—C. Kreger, M. Sanner, E. Custer, D. Love, L. Brugh, D. Woods, Roy R. Sanner, Instructor; E. Weyand.

A full time Industrial Arts department was started this year with Mr. Roy R. Sanner as instructor.

This course, according to State requirements, is mandatory for all seventh, eighth and ninth grade boys. After this fulfillment, any 10th, 11th, or 12th grade boys may carry Industrial Arts along with their other subjects.

The very outset of this year found the Industrial Arts boys with cooperation from the Agriculture Department, going through a complete shop improvement program.

Walls were cleaned and sprayed with white alabastine, after which the concrete floor was chemically treated and painted. (Incidentally, the F. F. A. Club financed this treatment—$35.00).

Tool cabinets were built and finished in dark oak. Accessory cabinets were built to eliminate unnecessary cluttering up of vari-sized nails, nuts, bolts, etc.

All in all, the shop's many improvements this year can place it on a level with any in the county, and the boys can justly be proud of the job they've done.

After necessary improvements, individual projects were started. This included tie racks, various kinds of wall shelves, hall trees, magazine racks, gun racks, wall novelties, benches, end tables, book ends, and door stops.

An even more complete program is planned for next year including additional shop improvements and equipment.
